Management of Traumatic Brain Injury in Times of Peace and War

21-JAN 2026 | 3:30 – 7:30 pm

Location:

Lecture Hall 1, University Hospital Jena, Lobeda

Dear colleagues,

We are honoured to welcome you to our symposium on Traumatic Brain Injury (TBI) in times of peace and war.

TBI remains one of the most complex and challenging conditions in both military and civilian medicine. While the mechanisms differ – whether resulting from combat-related incidents or daily-life accidents – the consequences for individuals, families and healthcare systems are profound and far-reaching.

In bringing together TBI experts from Germany and Ukraine, we aim to provide state of the art knowledge on the treatment of TBI itself, but also on challenges for healthcare systems, which rapidly occur when peace disappears, and crisis needs to be managed.

We are looking forward to valuable insights and inspiring discussions on TBI management in times of peace and war.

Yours sincerely,

PD Dr. Johannes Ehler
Department of Anesthesiology and Intensive Care Medicine

Prof. Dr. Christian Senft
Department of Neurosurgery
